Garden season has begun and our Life Skills team is eager to build on the gardens that we have had the last few years. Joel Stockford built us beautiful planter boxes a few years ago and we are adding "green house" tops to them as part of our building unit. We are looking for Greenhouse film / plastic that families may like to donate to the school. If you have any, please contact Kelli Northrup at (403) 224-3250.

Bowden Grandview School Parent Spring Survey 2023

As vital partners in your child's education, we believe the parent voice is extremely important. We would like to invite you to give us your thoughts on how we are doing at Bowden Grandview School through our annual BGS Parent Spring Survey. We are interested in our parent perception on areas we are doing well in and those that need more work. We will use this data to plan for the remainder of this year and next year. Please look for an email that was sent out on March 20th to all families for a link to our survey.

Thank you in advance for your input!

Literacy

Talking about spring; gardening is on our minds and mud and all the things related to mud! Check out these great reads for the rest of March!

In the depths of winter, one young girl is already dreaming of planting her very own vegetable garden. In January, she sketches out the rows of lettuce, the trellis for the peas, and a large plot for the tomatoes while she waits for warmer weather. March is time for sowing, and April gives way to the first leaves of her seedlings.

This is a super adorable book about a little pink pig who sits on a rock and says, “ribbit.” The pond frogs are utterly confused: What’s he saying? Is he making fun of them? They go to an old beetle for advice and realize that the pig is learning the frog language to make friends with frogs. By the time they have figured that out, the pig is already in the tree speaking “tweet” with his new bird friends.

March 29th is National Mermaid Day! Here is a great selection of Mermaid books that you might be interested in reading!
