

Bowden Grandview School

May 20, 2025

On Thursday, May 8th, four students from Bowden Grandview School attended the Spartan Spectacular Unified Sport Tournament at Olds High School. The requirements for a unified athlete is a person with an intellectual disability or challenge of any kind from grade 9 - 12. The partner to the unified athlete must be someone who can actively participate with the athlete in a fun, meaningful and engaging way. Our athletes Grady Jackson and partner Savannah Campbell and Dawson Kostler with partner, Cole Scott were greeted along with other athletes from 8 other schools to an enthusiastic and uplifting day. Athletes played various rounds of cornhole throughout the day competing against various partnered groups from a variety of schools. Dance breaks, lunch, new friendships and laughter were some highlights of the day. A huge congratulations to all athletes!! We are especially proud of them all and major kudos to Dawson and Cole who were playing for first, tied, played a second set, tied again and finally after a nailbiting "first to 8" won 8-5 coming in first!

Our Grade One class has been busy with an exciting science project—hatching eggs! The students have been carefully observing the incubator and learning about the life cycle of a chicken. After weeks of waiting, they were thrilled to watch the chicks begin to hatch. This hands-on experience has sparked curiosity and joy in the classroom and we're so proud of our young scientists!

Bowden Grandview Students Participate in Rotary Adventures

May is a busy month for some BGS students that are attending Rotary Club adventures. Jessie Grenier will be traveling to Ottawa, attending Adventures in Citizenship at the end of the month. Jaxon Barry and Wyatt Longjohn attended the Rotary Youth and Leadership Awards held May 8-11 near Alix. They enjoyed meeting new people and making like minded friends.

Danika, a grade nine student, was one of the students that attended the Rotary Youth Program of Enrichment. She enjoyed making new friends, fun activities and Camp Clue. Challenge by Choice made a large impact on her life and how she faces challenges now. She got to rekindle a couple of friendships and would like to thank the Innisfail Rotary Club for this fabulous opportunity.

Bowden Grandview is so appreciative of the support that we receive from the club to provide students with these enriching opportunities. This dynamic group of students has been invited to attend a Rotary meeting in June to share their experiences with the Innisfail club members.

May 24 – Infinity and Me, Kate Hosford (Gabriel Fahrenheit's Birthday)

Today's the birthday of Gabriel Fahrenheit, the physicist who invented mercury thermometers and created the Fahrenheit scale. There are no books about Gabriel, but here is a great STEAM book instead.

Infinity and Me explores the idea of thinking as a way to interact with the world. And it provokes many different conversations about science and the philosophy of life. Would you want to be eight years old forever? Would you want to eat your favorite ice cream for eternity? How many times can you cut a noodle in half? Do you know the names of your grandparents' parents?

Indigenous Story

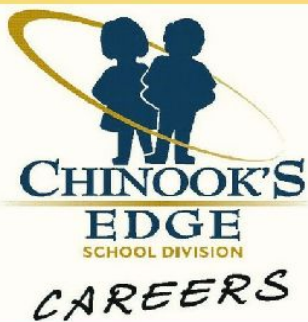

Heroes of the Water Monster

By Brian Young

An unmissable companion to Healer of the Water Monster, which won the American Indian Library Association Youth Literature Award, this novel by Navajo author Brian Young tells the story of two contemporary young Navajo heroes—and one water monster—who must learn to work together to save their present world from the lasting hurts of their people's past.

Edward feels ready to move in with his dad's girlfriend and her son, Nathan. He might miss having his dad all to himself, but even if things in their new home are a little awkward, living with Nathan isn't so bad. And Nathan is glad to have found a new guardian for Dew, the young water monster who has been Nathan's responsibility for two years. Now that Nathan is starting to lose his childhood connection to the Holy Beings, Edward will be the one to take over as Dew's next guardian.
